German Forces Are Retreating in Central Ukraine

Nazis Admit Russians Expand Cherkassy Bridgehead

LONDON, Dec. 11.—(AP)—German news agency broadcast today said Gen. Ivan Konev's 2nd Ukrainian Army has expanded its Cherkassy bridgehead in the great Dnieper bend and has driven into Cherkassy itself where "violent fighting is taking place in the town."

MOSCOW, Dec. 11.—The Germans were reported in disorderly retreat toward the central Ukrainian bastion of Kirovograd today amid indications of an impending collapse of Nazi defences

throughout the Dnieper bend.

Deprived of their northern escape lines by the Soviet capture of Znamanka and the twin direction of Kirovka, eight miles to the northwest, tens of thousands of Germans inside the bend were expected almost momentarily to begin a withdrawal over the rail roundabout railroad remaining in their hands.

Simultaneously, front reports hinted at a resumption of Soviet drives toward Kirovograd, Nikolayev and Nikolov, principal German strongholds in the bend.

THREATENED ENCLOSURE

One Russian force was threatening to envelop Kirovograd,

German industrial and operational base. The Russians said the bend had abandoned eight guns, an ammunition dump and several trucks in its "disorderly retreat" toward Kirovograd.

Another Soviet column pushed six miles down the Znamanka-

Nikolovsk railroad and captured

21 miles of railroad.

For Post-War Era

Canadian Legion Urges Central City Auditorium

Proposals for an early start on a civic auditorium and hockey arena in downtown Edmonton as part of a general plan of post-war reconstruction here will be laid before the next general meeting of the Edmonton branch of the Canadian Legion, it was learned here Saturday.

It is understood the Legion will make recommendations to the city for the erection of the arena, proposing the largely vacant space of property immediately south of the C.N.R. station, as the site.

The city has already indicated tentative plans for an arena and auditorium to be constructed in the post-war period. One site suggested by the city is in the vicinity of 101 avenue and 112 street.

The Legion is likely to press for an early start on the project. If the financial hurdle is not too great

Bracken Says Government

Must Be More Directly

Under Scrutiny of People

HAMILTON, Dec. 11.—(CP)—John Bracken said in an address last night on the first anniversary of his election as Progressive Conservative national leader that government in Canada must be decentralized to bring it more directly under scrutiny of the people.

After reviewing C.C.F. policies

he said that "state socialism" can not brook political opposition and that once in power it "always moves swiftly toward dictatorship."

He said Canada needs "national reform" and suggested four "watch words of the future":

1.—Decentralization, not centralization.

2.—Co-operation, not state dictatorship.

3.—Expanding production, not expanding population.

4.—Widening areas of trade, not weather-enforced lull.

Just Misses Death

Bashaw Night-Fighter Bags 3 Nazi Planes

LONDON, Dec. 11.—(CP)—Three of four German bombers destroyed over Britain last night were shot down by P.O. R.D. Schultz, a 34-year-old pilot from Barbash, Alta., whose night-fighting Mustang plane was so badly damaged after the three combats that he had to make an emergency landing at a strange airport.

The planes shot down by Schultz in what he described as "a great night for me" were Dornier 217s.

Schultz left the first German plane "a burning mass on the sea," blew up the second at such close range that he barely avoided colliding with pieces of the wreckage, and shot the third into the sea with almost his last shell.

Although Schultz did not know it, he missed death by inches during the third encounter when one burst from a German fighter ripped through the Mustang.

Maximum Prices Fixed by Board For Sausage Meat
OTTAWA, Dec. 11.—(CP)—The price board last night announced an order establishing maximum prices for the sale of sausage meat not enclosed in cases. Pork sausage meat is used in making dressing for turkeys and other birds and seasonal dishes.
The ceiling price specified for each pound of sausage in Canada is four cents per pound, plus the cost of the sausage in sheep casing, in the same style of package.
The order provides for an increase of one-half cent per pound in the price of whole hog sausage. Sausage makers are advised to bring this item into more normal relationship with the price of meat in animal casing than existed in an earlier board order.

Bloody Battle Being Fought By Canadians

LONDON, Dec. 11.—(CP)—The bloodiest battle for Canadian troops in the Italian campaign, and one which probably is on a par with the fiercest fought in Sicily, now is in its fourth day.

The battle developed when the Canadians attacked northward from their hard-won Moro River bridgeheads, and the German forces have thrown the line in the spearhead of the chief offensive facing the Canadians in the drive toward the important port of Pescara.

Infantry and tank formations are attacking the German positions against creek German troops.

PUSH ALONG COAST
After western Canadian troops captured the town of San Leonardo, two miles inland from the wind-battered bridgehead, the Canadians have moved on to the next objective, the port of Pescara.

The 12 miles of straight coast highway from Ortona to Pescara are likely to be the scene of a bitter struggle for the bridgehead, and the Canadians are preparing to defend it.

Frontline reports suggest the Canadian advance has been carried on the small crest of the Moro River, and the Canadians are likely to be able to hold it.

Mosquitos Raid Western Reich

By WILLIAM DICKINSON
LONDON, Dec. 11.—(CP)—Mosquito bombers, breaking a five-night lull in their forays over Axis Europe, raided unspecified objectives in western Germany last night without loss, the air ministry announced today.

A Stockholm dispatch reporting mid-night indicated that some British bombers may have penetrated the German defenses in the Baltic.

The air ministry announced that the number of German twin-engine and single-engine fighters as increased in the western "front" by 30 per cent since the beginning of the year, but the R.A.F. bomber command's losses nevertheless had decreased steadily.

Eleven in One

Canadians generally will applaud the decision of the Department of National War Services to consolidate the various national drives to raise funds for the people of Allied countries into one single two-month campaign each year. This number of eleven drives for the Aid to Russia Fund, the Chinese War Relief Fund and the others, there will be one campaign to raise money for all of them.

This decision does not affect purely local efforts to raise money for any of the various drives, bazaars and sales, of which the year is teeming.

The consolidation will be useful, chiefly,
as a means of enabling donors to budget their giving to the time of the year.
It will make the whole business on a definite and practical scale.

Good Canadian citizens do not object to giving freely to worthy and essential causes. Indeed, North Americans, all these drives have been very generous. But people are entitled to know just what is expected of them. This new plan will make it easier for every giver.

Our New Embassies

It is announced that Canadian legations in Russia, China and Brazil have been elevated to the rank of embassies, while the legations of these countries in Ottawa have been raised to the rank of embassies.
This procedure has already been followed in the case of diplomatic representation between Canada and the United States.

The change was made to the facility and force with which Canada carries out her foreign policy. While our diplomatic representation in foreign countries retained the rank of legation, it was customary, although not legally necessary, for our representatives to lean on the British embassies in those places as carrying superior rank and prestige.

This practice frequently led to delays, compromises and a general loss of weight and force in carrying on Canada's national business abroad. This new plan will put Canadian embassies entirely on their own and consequently make them more forceful and efficient.

It will also increase Canada's national prestige and advertise her sovereignty—something which needs very badly to be done in some parts of the world.

Another Slap for Tojo

The plane-carriers which raided the Marianas Islands marked up a score of six Japanese ships sunk, four more damaged, seventy-two Jap planes shot down and "immense" others destroyed on the ground. Allied landings are reported to have been "light", with only one ship damaged.

If the raid was intended to clear the way for landing ground forces, it achieved a substantial part of the purpose. In any event it struck a blow which has weakened the enemy for offensive operations against the Gilberts or elsewhere in the Pacific. The Japanese navy has challenge to the Japanese fleet to come out of hiding and try its luck at stopping the progressive loss of the islands captured when the war was started.

Whether this off-rear challenge will be taken up is often guess-work. If Tokyo is as confident of its own superiority, it has considerable reason to believe it would be yes. But if the record is taken as a guide, no amount of badgering will tempt the Japanese out of their holes. It is desirable out of home waters, nor even provide the sending of large forces in lighter craft far afield. For the Japanese navy has not fared happily when it ventured abroad.

Macassar Strait, the Coral Sea, Midway, are names which recall a series of disasters in distant waters unbroken by any great victories. These are hardly likely to encourage Tojo to venture into the remote areas, since it is becoming rather obvious that Japan cannot afford to lose more men and ships in the Pacific. The home ports to devastating attacks by sea as well as by carrier-based planes.
Winning, Premier McBride refused to introduce a bill to change the regulations.
The Naval Service has been conferred on Senator E. B. (Buck) McLean.

The average lander is slow in disappearing wholly artificial condition arose from which every person must suffer and which will in the end go down in a crash of deflation.

The reception that is given to the new order will be a test of how generally the people of Canada realize what inflation would do to them, how near we are to the danger point, and whether we are willing to do each to his part to avert the calamity.

Building permits are still being taken out at the city hall, the majority of them providing for the erection of dwelling houses. That will tell the outside reader the kind of weather we have been having in Edmonton, as well as the situation in other parts of the province. People do not take house-permits when it is too cold to dig basements, pour concrete and carry on building operations.

Grand Alliance Opposed

As Sure Cause of Next War

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

In an article, published December 10, in the New York Herald and Examiner, Mr. Sumner Welles, the former assistant secretary of state, and now ambassador to the United States, has made a statement which is altogether contrary to the opinion of most of the world's statesmen.

The questions are whether we shall rest the future of the world upon a "grand alliance" of three great powers, or whether we shall develop a genuine system of collective security, with all its obligations and responsibilities for all.

All official utterances pay lip service to the second idea. The four-power league, which was discussed between foreign ministers in Moscow, declares that the four powers are the "natural basis for the future of the world."

This proposition is also the basis of the "grand alliance" of three great powers, which is the basis of

TODAY'S MESSAGE

By Rev. CHARLES T. COOK
Editor of "The Christian"

"No Short Cuts"

WHEN the Israelites went out of Egypt, they were not taken by the shortest route. "God led them not by the way of the land of the Philistines, although that was near." There was a mercurial reason for this, which is immediately stated. They were not ready to face war; their faith might have failed so they might have turned back to bondage. God, who "knoweth our frame," kept them in mercy from the "short cut," and "led the people about, by the way of the wilderness by the Red Sea."

The notion of that wilderness is almost enough to remind us of a further purpose in the divine plan for them. They were as yet no more spiritually fitted for entrance on the promised land, than they were physically equipped for conflict. They had to be instructed at Sinai; they must be called there into solemn covenant with God, and bear His requirements as to their worship and service.

The comparisons drawn between the various stages of the Israelites' historic experiences and the experiences of the spiritual life are familiar to us all. Whether Canaan be interpreted as typifying the heavenly inheritance or the victorious Christian life and there appears to be no reason to excuse. "Humble and proved" we shall find us under both aspects, the incident before us illustrates the truth that there is no short cut to perfection, or spiritual maturity.

The spiritual pilgrimage of many of us has been as long drawn out as the wanderings of Israel. But the Shepherd of Israel is the Good Shepherd of His people still. Sanctification by faith may be immediate, so far as the gift and purpose of God are concerned. But in personal appropriation there are always lessons to be learned, and few Christians are quick learners.

The schooling would be for us, even as it was meant to be for Israel, if faith and obedience were flawless. Yet the longest way round may prove to be the shortest way home, even though the delays are in themselves without excuse. "Humble and proved" we shall confess that God's way, however long and trying it may be, is the best way. "Right was the pathway leading to this," will be the believer's testimony at the last.

And there are no short cuts in Christian witness and service, whatever our sphere in these may be. The evangelist soon finds this out, as he faces the indifference of multitudes to whom his message seems to make no appeal. Steady persistence, in sole reliance upon the Holy Spirit, is demanded if there is to be fruit in any amount of human eloquence or ingenuity will produce of itself. And when conversions do take place, we know how fatal it is to think that the battle is over, it begun.

Herbert Morrison was reported in the London Times only recently as deprecating the idea that enormous improvements all round could be produced "by passing an act or pronouncing some magic spell." There were no short cuts, he said, and no easy solutions. Others have told us the same thing, in other words.

No short cuts to a new world after the war? Have we not had to learn, also, that there are no short cuts to victory in the war? There was, indeed, the marvellously presidential end of the Tannian campaign, which seemed like the exception that proves the rule. But even that was the climax to a painful long preparation.

God does not often lead us by the way that is near, in things either temporal or spiritual. There is no short cut to glory, hereafter. But the pains of our journey will be forgotten, and still themselves be the subject of praise, in the "nevertheless afterward" of eternal deliverance, in His eternal presence.

Bracken Says Government Must Be More Directly Under Scrutiny of People

national network, but the Progressive Conservative leader made no reference to the CBC's action in its broadcast text.

Following is a partial text of Mr. Bracken's speech:

It is now almost exactly 12 months since I was invited by a convention in Winnipeg to accept the leadership of a national party.

In the councils of the party, younger minds and more vigorous opinions had triumphed over considerations of party experience and the promptings of mere habit. The resolutions adopted in Winnipeg gave proof that the party had been reborn, was filled with a spirit of service and driven by a lofty purpose. It gave evidence of its no faith and determination by indicating in its name—Progressive Conservative—the basic principles for which it stood, the preservation of what was best from the world of yesterday and the adoption of what is best in the world of today.

MOVEMENT GROWS

A clamorous political movement had grown up in the country which was ready and more than willing to take all power into its hands and to bring a spirit of youthful impetuosity to the government of the country. It was good as well as that to which society had fallen heir.

Our new political movement had borrowed the noble teachings of the 19th century writers and was seeking power to put them into practice on Canadian soil. It would make the state an instrument of good, denied to monarchs and extended its authority over all things. Yet the prophecies of Marx, which in the past, have been disproved by the process of time.

Wherever revolutionary methods have destroyed the fabric of society, power has been used to place the state in a position of control, the standard of living has dropped, freedom has disappeared, and the state has become a secret police has darkened the threshold of every man's home.

We pay just tribute to Russia and the valiant part she is playing in the war. But it is not the Bolshevik revolution with its denial of freedom, which made Russia strong, but the industrial revolution, which came to that country half a century later than it did to the democracies. But neither communism nor industrialism, nor both together, have succeeded in making the Russian people as high standard of living, on the average, as the people of the paid section of the people of Britain.

EXTENDING PRODUCTION

Extending production is the basis of prosperity. The economic condition of yesterday was unable to produce it or to sustain it. State socialism can never achieve it, for socialism is rigid, centralized and unchangeable.

The only hope of a steady-expanding national income lies in the cooperation of the state with the organized enterprise, whether it be private or co-operative or government owned.

In the year that has elapsed since I accepted the leadership, I have travelled this Dominion from coast to coast.

I have come back reinforced in the conviction that far-reaching reforms are necessary if our feet are to tread the road of expanding production, increasing security and full employment. We are to see a steady-expanding national income in which all may have their just share.

Now, on the one hand we have piecemeal policies leaning toward reaction. On the other we have offered socialism. What the Progressive Conservative party stands for is a position between these two extremes.

BACK NATIONAL REFORM

We stand for a comprehensive system of rational reform. Between these three Canada must choose. It is unwise to look at the other two decisions will not be long delayed. Too many of us have been thinking and voting, not as Canadians.

Nothing which is bad for the hive is good for the bee; a house which is divided against itself will fall. A sane and clear approach to the basic task of mobilizing our resources, both human and material will go far toward removing these sectional misunderstandings and local heresies.

I believe that the powers of government, if consciously and positively exercised, can achieve any reasonable end that we may desire. It is the great spending power of the government is used, not only to build public works and provide social services, but as a means of supplementing enterprise when employment begins to dwindle, and taking up the resulting slack in employment wherever unemployment exists.

GOVT. BALANCE WHEEL

In the future, the government must become the balance-wheel of the nation, to keep it from going too far in any one direction, and to supplement the efforts of those who produce and distribute the wealth of the country.

But in the present sphere in which the government should be active, its work must be preventive rather than curative.

The government is the one organization which is above, or below, or outside of any social or occupational prejudice. It must accept the final responsibility for increasing the standard of living of each and every man. But it must do so without destroying the individuality of the people.

It is already agreed that the more we can decentralize administrative functions, the more efficient and less costly we shall be. There can hardly be a person within our government who has not had personal experience of the confusion and delay which attend the slowest of the creation of the great bureaucracy in Ottawa.

COERCIVE SYSTEM

There are those who will tell you that the only way to secure full employment is to transfer all productive property and capital to the ownership of the state. There is no doubt that all men can be given jobs and a measure of subsistence under such a coercive system. There is no doubt that such a system, if men are sentenced to labor.

We want an expanding economy, one that will give us a steady increasing national income and a just distribution of what is produced. And we want these things with a minimum loss of liberty.

If six people sit down to a table and it is decided that one of them has as much water in his glass as he needs, and the others have less, they will require, if it is not sufficient to demand that the one with the full glass shall share his water with the others.

The common sense thing to do is to turn in the tap or to go to the well and draw the other glasses. And there is a tap in this country which is being turned to the wrong position. It is a great reservoir. In that reservoir there is potential wealth, there are brains and experience, technical knowledge and powers of leadership, untold labor and untapped resources. There is mineral wealth lying undisturbed beneath the earth. There are acres of rich land, some of which are so improvidently utilized that it is not even enough capital equipment to make every man's work yielding the best possible result considering the resources at his disposal. And socialism is not the solution of the problem of the nation. It is a system of government that we are supposed to need if that need is determined by the masses, finance and industry have what we want, within the limits of our means to provide it.

This mad dream of a universal transformed into ordered perfection by a coercive system is not a human beings is not a pathetic delusion but it holds out possibilities of a most unpleasant kind. Any group that would ever be given a monopoly of power and make it real, that group would shortly concentrate enormous power in its own hands. It would then become most difficult for the elected representatives of the people to determine the policy of the government.

The possession of power by a highly centralized authority—power which can be conceded from all other with the government—official forms and red tape—is a very dangerous thing. It breeds an attitude of indifference to the needs of the people.

We are in common with our neighbors to the south and our fellow nations of the British Commonwealth, are quickly reaching a point of no return.

HIGHEST SOCIAL GOOD

It is now generally recognized that the highest social good is to conform to the highest social good. We have the choice of two methods for bringing this about. We can either submit to the discipline imposed by an all-powerful state, which will be not only our master, but our taskmaster; or we can choose the more difficult, self-reliant and co-operative path and let the state be the servant of all.

In the latter case, we shall remain masters of ourselves and destiny under the leadership of a government elected periodically by the people.

We must not be deluded into believing that the officers of the state are always amenable to the people's will.

If the people of Canada choose to conform to the path of the highest social good, they will lose much more than their property. They will lose their opportunity to achieve the high standard of living which is possible only through the exercise of the experience and the powers of leadership which are everywhere discernible among our people.

Every Canadian wants progress toward the more abundant life which is plainly possible with the resources and equipment of our country. To achieve this, some of us have had the plain will have to be broken down.

BRIDGE THE STRONG

The Progressive Conservative party believes that the government should bridge the strong and the weak, that their strength is turned to use, that they can lift up the weak and give them the means to help themselves; and that it should do those things for the people at large that can better be done by the state than by any single element within it.

We believe that government must be developed and brought more directly under the scrutiny of the people who are governed, and that all organized elements in the community should be given an opportunity to participate in the determination of policy.

Labor, for instance, should be more fully organized for its own protection, and the governing body of labor given not only the right to choose the best way of life, but also the right to choose the best way of life, and workers should have some voice in management through joint labor-management production committees.

It is a most ironical paradox that the party which I lead is striving to create a co-operative commonwealth, while none of those who parade under the banner of the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation are advocating state socialism. And they are advocating it at a time when half a million citizens of the British Empire have given their lives to destroy the horrible results which followed the creation of state socialism in Europe.

It is an abbreviation of national socialism. The political motives underlying its creation were different from and incomparably worse than those which inspired the formation of the socialist party in Canada.

MOVES TO DICTATORSHIP

I do not accuse our socialist friends of being stupid. I simply point out that state socialism cannot break political opposition, and that, once in power, it always moves swiftly toward dictatorship supported by force.

The Progressive Conservative party believes that the creation of dictatorship for the means, raise the national income and bring a greater measure of security and prosperity to the average Canadian home. We believe it wrong to stir up hate and discord and set class against class. We believe that the power of the state should be used to protect the weak against the strong.

But we also hold the view that the strength of the strong and all the accumulated heritage of experience and all the well-oiled machinery of administration and organization should be preserved and its operations made to harmonize with the highest social good through a process of consultation and with a minimum of regulation.

The principle of self-discipline must be applied to all phases of the life of the nation. Once the principle is recognized and all are ready to accept it, the principle can be applied to commerce, trade and financial organizations.

It is brought into consultation with each other and with the government, and we can then go forward as a great Canadian team to enter fully into our rich heritage and use it to the greater advantage of all.

RUTHLESS MASTERS

If the people are prepared to abandon themselves to the guidance of ruthless masters, they will sink into a state of moral lethargy and be exploited by ruthless masters. For there is no advantage in just changing masters.

It is by trying that we must destroy it. It matters little whether the tyrant is to be found in financial circles, in the streets, in the offices in Philadelphia, or in the streets in Ottawa. We want to be free men, working in voluntary association with each other and choosing the best way of life for ourselves.

There are two alternatives to the system of government which I have outlined.

One is the piecemeal policy to which you have been accustomed, in times past, where producers financiers and great trading organizations are permitted to run the whole nation in an unbridled way, and the rights of the people are taken to things up.

The other alternative is to enroll the whole nation in an unbridled army. Under this method, the political elements, who have no experience in this kind of thing, will plan the industrial system, direct each man's work and disband it at will.

SEES NO SUCCESS

For my part, I believe that the system of piecemeal policy is not only incapable of creating a better life, but it is also incapable of creating a better life in the difficult days after the war, and I am convinced that the other alternative—socialism—can do no better; that it is distasteful to the temperment of our people, and in any case, it could only result in the creation of abundance and security. At best, it could only assure the rationing of society.

What Canada needs is neither piecemeal policy nor state socialism. What she really needs is rational reforms which will assure full production, full employment and the maximum of security, without the loss of freedom.

The lesson to be learned with the promise of victory over Germany in 1941, Canada has a real challenge to play in the new world which will begin to take shape when the great Canadian team to enter fully into our rich heritage and use it to the greater advantage of all.

GREAT INDUSTRIAL NATION

In the process of fighting the war, Canada has been forced to realize that national resources have yet to be measured.

If we would find ourselves in the face of a hundred people in the family of nations, we must begin at home by learning to work together in a spirit of co-operation.

We must discover for ourselves that there is only one source of security and prosperity, and that is for all to work in harmony for the good of the nation.

The system is far from perfect. But it is up to us to perfect it, and we can be perfectly by conscious endeavor under the supervision of the state.

With all its faults, the economic system which we have evolved and are constantly shaping and improving comes near enough to fulfilling its promise that it would be fully to let it be torn to pieces.

The news from abroad leads us to believe that the clash of arms may soon be ending; that our boys may soon be coming home. Let us, then, take stock of ourselves.

Let us, as Canadians, resolve to put aside sectionalism and class hatred; let us renounce the politics of experience and the fruitless game of playing off one group against another. Let us resist the blandishments of those who promise security and prosperity without the need of hard work or enterprise.

We should seek to be bribed by our own money, by the army. Under this method, the political elements, who have no experience in this kind of thing, will plan the industrial system, direct each man's work and disband it at will.

Canadian Gift Wheat to India Not Yet Shipped

OTTAWA, Dec. 11.—(CP)—Canada's gift of 100,000 tons of wheat to India, announced some time ago, has not yet been shipped. It was learned yesterday.

The bulk of it was sent to India in the near future, one official said.

The gift was designed to help relieve the Indian food shortage at the time of its announcement by Prime Minister Mackenzie King and its acceptance by Viscount Wavell, Viceroy of India, it was indictated the wartime shortage of shipping might make it impossible to deliver the wheat for some time.

"Pin Money"

OKLAHOMA CITY, Dec. 11.—(AP)—Allegedly his "Wavell" wanted sign, which is started in Oklahoma here, Hal Heals placed another reading "We Sell Bobbie Pins" that has imported ones. That was in June, a man, thought then, said Heals yesterday, "that he is doing a $100 or $200-a-day business in bobbie pins."

It is nothing new for John Gullekson and Phil Sonntag to be top points-makers for their respective clubs and at the same time occupy the two leading spots in the league. This pair merely seems to be staging something of a repeat act of what happened last season in the City Men's Basketball League.

Last year, however, Sonntag held the high individual record of 23 scores against City Men on Jan. 27 and he marked up a 32 in the session with Engineers Jan. 14. This time Gullekson is possessor of the best one-game record and it is the 28 record in the U.S. Hospital game on Dec. 2. High reached by Latter Day Saints this winter is 22 and he hit it twice. Engineers' Gullekson counted that number of points once and so did Joe Long of the Yanks. Warren Taubert, Hospital, has a brace of 21's.

PAUL BLAWIE, of the Yanks, is in the runner-up spot this season with 25 and, incidentally, this player compiled in four games his total of 96, which gives him a tie for sixth place with Artie Albert of Quartermasters.

In both "A" and "B" sections several of the players have not taken part in all of the games and in some instances have appeared in only one. And it seems unfortunate there is no provision in basketball whereby credit may be given to the maker of the pass which eventually results in the field score.

Several baskets of course are from strictly individual efforts, but in the absence of what corresponds to the "assist" in hockey and baseball, players responsible in larger measure for eventual points received no official recognition for effective work.

Phil Sonntag Second

Gullekson, of Engineers, Leads 'A' Section Cagers

WITH ST. John Gullekson heading the list with a total of 96 points, three of the first 12 places for scoring in "A" section, City Men's Basketball League go to the leading U.S. Army Engineers. Phil Sonntag of Latter Day Saints ranks second and Earl Ayers of the Engineers is third with 64.

Press All-Star Football Team Is Announced

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—(AP)—With the Iowa and Del Monte pre-flight schools landing two places each, the Associated Press service All-America for 1933 presents an array of football talent that includes three former members of the college All-America and five players who starred in professional ranks before entering the service.

The team selected by the Associated Press after a nationwide survey of expert opinion, and released Friday, includes the ace of nine service units from every section of the United States. Five of the players are in the army, the same number in the navy and the 31th is a coast guardman from the marine base at Camp Lejeune, N.C.

Specialist Robert Finch, Camp Lejeune, and Sgt. Jack Russell, Blackland, Tex., army air field, lead the Col. Glenn Doyle, Randolph Field, Texas, and Capt. HERE AND THERE

As a result of a nice gesture by James Speers, of Winnipeg, the University of Saskatchewan is now in possession of Brooms from the 1933-34 season.

Several noted western gallupers, such as Western Prince, Panbroom, Dolly Puffy, Wilkie Baby Room, Frilly and Hoop My Dear, it is in the latter two that their present owner, S. T. Knifong made the $4,000 sale to the University of California last Monday. Brooms will be used by the university for experimental breeding.

Ducky Skinner, former Edmonton buckster is on the best producing line for Winnipeg Navy along with Joe Bell and Wally Knifong. In the last season, the R.C.A.F. this year accounted for five of the six goals, two of which went to Skinner who also collected two assists.

After watching Calgary Currie Arms and Red Deer Wheelers in action against Russ McQuarrie's Saskatoon Navy, which finished a long run today at Madison Square Garden and returned their tour of the country. All three were every night of the police performance although the Currie Arms has enough wealth to be held in luxury. Eddie Shipstead, however, has a date with his craft boat next week and may bid farewell to his wife and three children at Ennola, Calif.

Those skating hope that Eddie makes the grade for service, as they have one representative in the fighting forces. Johnson is too old, and Roy Shipstead has been rejected because of a perforated ear drum.

Johnson says: "I hope I get the marines so well get it over in a hurry. This is the figure skating race to its proper place, and you'll see America win the first Olympic championship in that event—a championship that really belongs to us years ago."

Ken Shaw Is Runner-Up

Sam Schoettlin Top Scorer

In 'B' Section Hoop League

Counting a total of 55 points in the five games he played with Air Transport Command, Sam Schoettlin captured the unofficial scoring honors in the first round of play in "B" section of the Edmonton Net's Basketball League.

Schoettlin, who is now a cadet in the U.S. Air Corps, completed 2, 16, 9, 20 and 8 in games against the Aircraftmen, N.W.D., B.P.C., Y.M. and Aircraft respectively while Ken Shaw, coach of A.R.L., collected a total of 41 for the runner-up spot.

Jim Fleming finished five games with the Y team with 30 counters for third place and Bobby Aiken of Aircraft Repair and Ralph Schooley of A.T.C. are tied for fourth with 27 each.

The high scorer displayed his best performance against Y.M.C.A. when he chalked up 30 points, high single effort in any game in "B" section.

Members of the Y and N.W.D. teams didn't have the chance to count as many, however, as those two clubs only played five games as compared to six by the other three squads.

Following is the unofficial list:

But Majors Still Scouting

Returning Ball Players Big Worry for All Clubs

By WHITNEY MARTIN

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—(AP)—Baseball is worried about what to do with all the ball players when they return to civilian life after the war and report to their respective clubs, yet the major clubs hire scouting staffs to go out and sign up more young fellows who soon will be in the army and who will be just that many more players to worry about when it is all over.

Not that the clubs are losing money down a rat hole in their perpetual quest for new players. They are forced to lose by the over, if they knew it they would not. They wouldn't worry much about finding a place for the current crop of players now in service.

The clubs obviously are not figuring on a 10-year war, or anything near it. And they don't want to be caught with their reserve lists down when it ends much sooner than they hope. There may be more Joe DiMaggio and Bob Feller and Ted Williams among these kids they are signing. And the clubs aren't going to let some rival club get its hooks on them if it can be helped.

Then, too, a lot of ball players in the service won't return to the game. We doubt very much, for instance, if we'll ever see Hank Greenberg play again. Others in their 20s with two or three years of inactivity as far as baseball is concerned won't consider it worth the trouble to come back and try to get a year or two more out of baseball.

The major league clubs probably figure that and, too, in continuing to try around the sandlots and hold tryout camps. The kid prospects they uncover, and the younger the better, will be at a ripe age for league ball when they return from the wars. Besides, some of them might be 4fers who could be used right now.

The 1942 winner was Bill Alexander of Georgia Tech.

Bentley Suffers Mild Concussion

CALGARY, Dec. 11.—(CP)—Captain Ralph Wilson, public relations officer of M.D. 12, when asked to check on the extent of Max Bentley's injury in Wednesday night's hockey game, reported the Currie hockey player had two stitches taken in his scalp, was suffering from mild concussion, and that an X-ray was taken yesterday to make sure there was no skull fracture.

First reports said that 20 stitches were required to close the wound.

Regina Sailors

Lose First Game

REGINA, Dec. 11.—(CP)—Regina Sailors suffered their first setback in the Southern Saskatchewan Junior Hockey League last night, dropping a 7-3 decision to Regina Commandos.

The victory pushed Commandos into second place in the five-team circuit.

George Beach led the Commandos with three goals, while Jack Wilkie collected two and Larry Beardon and Charles Sanderson, one each. Clayton White, Les Barrett and Donald scored for the Sailors.

Reconstruction Ministry Likely To Be Formed

By JAMES MICKO

OTTAWA, Dec. 11.—(CP)—Appointment of a federal minister of reconstruction or a commission to begin planning prior to actual establishment of a ministry probably will be made early in 1944, reliable sources said yesterday.

Early government action to get reconstruction plans to a point permitting work to be started as soon as men in the forces are demobilized has been urged by groups studying post-war reconstruction and by witnesses appearing before parliamentary committees.

"IMMEDIATE" ACTION
In a report to the house of commons last June 21, the house committee on reconstruction urged the government to give "immediate" consideration to setting up such a body which would bring reconstruction proposals into their final stage, ready for action.

Since then the 28-man reconstruction committee has heard evidence from witnesses representing the provinces of Ontario, New Brunswick and Nova Scotia, the construction industry, the Federation of Maritime Municipalities, and the railway labor organizations.

Through all the evidence the theme that leadership from the Dominion government is expected in the reconstruction of the country after the war has been emphasized. Further, it is an assurance of reconstruction action by the government of a minister or some authoritative body has been given by the committee probably in the form of recommendations for early action, believed sources said.

Public Interest Safeguarded by Canadian Banks

The long record of public service performed by Canada's chartered banks, and the safeguards set up by the government and the banks themselves to protect public interest, were reviewed by C. H. Carleton, president of The Dominion Bank, in his address to shareholders at the annual meeting in Toronto on December 8.

Referring to the C.I.F. program to nationalize the bank if it gained power, and charges that the banks were a national system, Mr. Carleton pointed out that the banks were a national system, and that the banks were a national system, and that the banks were a national system.

Cattle Market

"Steady" in West

OTTAWA, Dec. 11.—(CP)—The Dominion department of agriculture said yesterday that cattle prices in western Canada were steady to strong during the last week, especially on the better grades of killing material, but in the west the market was "not too steady" and in many instances plain stecker cattle were hard to get.

"There was still some congestion on the killing in western Canada, but shippers kept receipts coming in from the west, and in many instances plain stecker cattle were hard to get."

"Calves were strong sellers throughout, with some slight price noted, while bulls, although in heavy supply, maintained their previous levels."

"Lamb markets were a mixed affair. While Toronto was dropping to 50¢ a lb. on a heavy offering of below-normal quality, other markets were marking up gains of up to 25¢."

"Calves were strong sellers throughout, with some slight price noted, while bulls, although in heavy supply, maintained their previous levels."

MAYBE THIS ISN'T SO SMART... THEY'VE GOT US TRAPPED

LISTEN!

A PLANE ... AND COMING OUR WAY!

IF IT'S MORE JAPS IT'S A DAISY CARPET FOR US!

BUT IT ISN'T! IT'S JEFF HILL'S PLANE!

I SEE THE GALS. THEY'RE STILL OKAY!

GET READY TO SHOVE THAT STUFF OUT, LAZ!

WHERE AM I? WHERE'S EVERYBODY? WHAT'S GOING ON?

AN ENEMY PLANE ARRIVES, HERR GARBLER!

MEANWHILE GARBLER RECOVERS CONSCIOUSNESS

THE JAP GUARDS GO INTO ACTION....

SPINNER CAME IN TOO LOW.... THOSE JAP SNIPERS ARE DEADLY

HOW ARE YOU COMING, SON?

SWELL! JUST GO ON IN AND SIT DOWN! BOY, WON'T MOM AND LIL BE SURPRISED WHEN THEY FIND OUT WE GOT OUR OWN BREAKFAST FAST!

I MIXED JUST ENOUGH BATTER FOR ABOUT EIGHT PANCAKES... HERE ARE FOUR OF 'EM—GO TO IT!

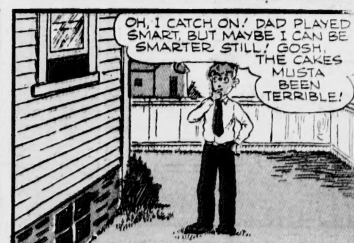

MY GOSH, I CAN'T EAT THESE--THEY'RE LIKE SLABS OF LEATHER!

BUT I DON'T WANT TO HURT WILLIS'S FEELINGS!

NOW WHERE THE HECK DID HE GET THOSE?

OH, I CATCH ON! DAD PLAYED SMART, BUT MAYBE I CAN BE SMARTER STILL! GOSH, THE CAKES MUSTA BEEN TERRIBLE!

HOW WERE THEY, DAD?

WHY--FINE--FINE! BEST I EVER ATE! I COULD EAT FOUR MORE!

OH, NO, WILLIS, I WOULDN'T TAKE YOURS AWAY FROM YOU! AS LONG AS THERE'S ONLY ENOUGH BATTER FOR EIGHT CAKES, I'VE HAD MY SHARE!

HONEST, DAD, I FILLED UP ON BREAKFAST FOOD WHILE THE CAKES WERE COOKING--I'LL READ THE PAPER WHILE YOU FINISH!

WHY DIDN'T I KEEP MY BIG MOUTH SHUT?!
